Runway Looks

This year, for our runway attire, we wanted to create a story revolving around different levels of formality for weddings and utilize a singular colour theme throughout. The colour theme that we chose was a combination of green and blue. From destination wedding attire, to black tie attire, to white tie attire, we wanted a unique show with unexpected looks that stand out on the runway.

For the Travelling Groom

Destination weddings have been a growing trend. Many couples combine their wedding with a tropical getaway to share memories with their close friends and family. Rather than the common sand coloured linen suit, we wanted to show an eye catching pop of colour. This mint green wool & silk blend tuxedo is a stand out look for a destination wedding. The lightweight fabric will breathe in the hot weather and the silk will stand out in the sunlight. We paired it with a mint green silk ascot for a laid back, elegant style.

For the English Gentleman

Tartan Plaid has a rich and elegant history in English tailoring. The fabric is seen countless times from the bespoke tailor shops on Savile Row to the high fashion runway looks of London Fashion Week. This beautiful Blackwatch Plaid Tuxedo is the perfect blend of traditional tailoring and modern fashion design. The elegant black satin lapel and black satin buttons create a harmonious look with the onyx bow tie and jet black swarovski crystal studs on the shirt.

For the Sophisticated Groom

Velvet has a unique elegance and formality. Its rich history in formal wear dates back many centuries. We've created a deep teal velvet smoking jacket and paired it a blackwatch plaid vest for a contrasting, elegant look. The complimentary navy trousers allow the jacket to stand out as the centrepiece of the outfit, while allowing the deep teal tassel loafers to complete the look.

For the Royal Wedding

Ever since the Royal Wedding, we have seen a rise in grooms looking for elegant white tie attire. With this unique runway look, we've taken a different approach to the traditional white tie look. The outstanding tailcoat is made using a midnight navy tonal jacquard fabric, creating a more fashion forward look.

The midnight navy double breasted vest and trouser stay traditional and classic, allowing the tailcoat to stand out as the centrepiece of your white tie outfit.
